PIKE COUNTY NEWS

McDYER HELD COUNTY ENGINEER'S EXAMINATION.

William McDyer of Ashland held an examination this week at Pikeville for county road engineers. Three young men from Pikeville, Otto and Jefferson Bentley and B. H. Auxier, entered the examination. Also, L. E. Wallace from Louisa. Those who passed the test will be qualified to hold positions as county engineers in the different counties of Kentucky to have supervision over the locating and grading of highways, and a certificate will be issued to each authorizing them to do this work.

Mr. McDyer, the state's division engineer, has charge of ten counties along the Sandy and Kentucky rivers, and he is a good-roads enthusiast.

The results of this examination will not be known for two weeks, but Pike county will furnish at least three engineers for the state's good-road work, and Lawrence county one.

FLANERY TRIAL COMING NEXT WEEK.

The trial of former County Superintendent W. E. Flanery, charged with the killing of Dr. R. Q. Thornbury will probably be opened in the Circuit Court next Tuesday. This will be the second hearing of this case, the first having resulted in a hung jury, after the testimony of about seventy-five witnesses on each side had been heard. The case has attracted considerable public attention on account of the prominence of the accused as a merchant and politician, and of the deceased as one of the well known physicians of the county of Pike. The latter's former home was at Pikeville, and he was a brother of the late M. C. Thornbury of the Consolidated Grocery Co.

HEAVY RAINS SWEEP UPPER SANDY SECTION.

The hardest rains of the summer thoroughly drenched the upper Sandy section and eastern Kentucky generally last Thursday. The rains were a needed refreshment to the drouth-stricken crops. At 5:30 in the afternoon the hardest rain of the day set in, and for two hours after it had ceased, the streets in one section of Pikeville were flooded, so that traffic was held up and pedestrians were compelled to go a long way round the water.

PROMPT ACQUITTAL.

Greely White, Deputy Sheriff, was promptly acquitted last Thursday in the Circuit Court of the charge of killing Lawrence Davis, negro, on Pond creek, this county, two months ago. White entered a plea of self-defense and showed that he was attempting to arrest another negro, when Davis was about to take his life with a pitchfork. He then fired the shot that killed Davis, according to testimony.

WOMAN HELD AS MURDERESS STEALS LIBERTY.

Mrs. Mousie Robinson, convicted of the killing of her husband, John Robinson, at Mossy Bottom, during the past summer, escaped from the Pikeville jail last Saturday morning while enjoying liberty as a trusty, and has not been found. Mrs. Robinson on conviction of shooting her husband was given a sentence of from eight to twenty-one years in the penitentiary, and she was held in jail here pending an appeal for a rehearing. She was taken to be thoroughly trustworthy and was allowed to help with the house work on the outside of the prison, but when Mrs. Thornbury, the jailer's wife, looked for her at noon Saturday she was nowhere to be found. The jailer, deputy sheriffs and detectives were sent in every direction for watch every avenue of escape. It is believed that she is in hiding in the hills in the near neighborhood of the town, and may possibly be receiving aid in her escape from relatives.

At six-thirty o'clock Thursday night while Miss Jennie, the fourteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Thornbury, was seated at the piano in the parlor of the home, her mother having gone to the home of Rev. Thomas Grenfell, only a short distance away, a white man, who had entered through the kitchen cellar, and approached through the hall entered the parlor and demanded: "Where is the money?" She attempted to scream, but she could do so he grabbed her stuffing a cloth into her mouth. He caught her by the collar and back of the neck and snatched a coat from a hall tree and threw it over her head, tying it around her waist. He must have been frightened away after dragging the unconscious girl to the kitchen and leaving her on the floor.

She having fainted, her mother, who entered a few minutes later heard groans and on investigating found her daughter who was unhurt, save for the bad fight she had had. Several suspects were arrested and are being held. She was much excited when, one a West Virginian, who has been in the toils before in this city, was brought into her presence. An attempt to break into other homes was made.
